IV. CAUSES OF ACTION

COUNT ONE - NEGLIGENCE

Plaintiff Randy Chu v. All Defendants

13. The preceding paragraphs are incorporated by reference as if the same were fully set forth at length herein.

14. At all times relevant hereto, the Trump defendants had a non-delegable duty to provide safe and secure facilities for plaintiff and other patrons of the Trump defendants.

15. The Trump defendants knew or by using reasonable care should have discovered the condition which caused plaintiff's injuries, and should have realized that the condition involved an unreasonable risk of harm to invitees in general, and plaintiff in particular.

16. Plaintiff did not know or have reason to know of the condition or the risk of the condition.

17. The Trump defendants knew or should have expected that invitees, licensees and plaintiff, in particular, would not discover or realize the danger or would fail to protect themselves from the danger.

18. The Trump defendants, individually and through their actual and/or ostensible agents, servants, and/or employees, were negligent, careless and breached their duty of care generally and in the following particular respects:

- a. creating a dangerous condition of the premises;
- b. maintaining a dangerous condition of the premises;
- c. failing to warn the plaintiff of a dangerous condition of the premises;
- d. failing to use reasonable care in the maintenance and use of the premises;
- e. failing to use reasonable care to protect plaintiff from foreseeable harm;
- f. failing to inspect the premises and discover the dangerous condition;

- g. failing to realize the dangerous condition involved an unreasonable risk of harm to plaintiff;
- h. failing to properly install the railings in the casino;
- i. failing to properly inspect the railings in the casino;
- j. failing to properly maintain and/or repair the railings in the casino;
- k. failing to properly supervise the installation, inspection, maintenance, and repair of the railings in the casino;
- l. failing to detect and identify the broken railing;
- m. failing to inspect and repair the railing in a timely manner;
- n. failing to create, implement and enforce proper policies and procedures for the inspection, maintenance and repair of the railing;
- o. failing to comply with policies and procedures for the inspection, maintenance and repair of the railing;
- p. failing to comply with industry standards and practices for the inspection, maintenance and repair of the railing;
- q. failing to contact the maintenance department to notify it of the broken railing;
- r. failing to close the area around the railing until it was repaired; and
- s. failing to use “hazard” cones and/or other devices to warn of the dangerous condition.

19. As a direct result of the negligence, carelessness and other liability producing conduct of the defendants, plaintiff Randy Chu was caused to sustain serious and permanent personal injuries including, but not limited to, a left forearm dorsal laceration requiring approximately 20 stitches and laceration of extensor muscles and tendons, all of which required medical care and intensive physical therapy and treatment and which will require ongoing medical care and treatment, including future surgical intervention.

20. As a direct result of the negligence, carelessness and other liability producing conduct of the defendants, plaintiff has incurred substantial expenses for medical care and treatment, and he will continue to incur such expenses for the rest of his life.

21. As a direct result of the negligence, carelessness and other liability producing conduct of the defendants, plaintiff has suffered a loss of his earnings and earning capacity, and he will continue to suffer such loss for the rest of his life.

22. As a direct result of the negligence, carelessness and other liability producing conduct of the defendants, plaintiff has suffered a diminution in his ability to enjoy the ordinary pleasures of life, and he will continue to suffer such loss for the rest of his life.

23. As a direct result of the negligence, carelessness and other liability producing conduct of the defendants, plaintiff has experienced severe physical and emotional pain and suffering, and he will continue to suffer the same for the rest of his life.
